

Validation of Sustainability Reports according to GRI Criteria

More and more companies want to demonstrate their economic, environmental and social performance in public and prefer a representation which is comparable with others. Therefore, many companies are creating their corporate sustainability reports based on the globally accepted sustainability reporting Standards of the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI SRS), currently the most important standard for sustainability reporting.

The key criteria of the GRI are relevance, completeness, truth and comprehensibility of the report elements, data and indicators.

The Advantage of GUTcert

Based on our broad expertise, we make recommendations for the further development of the sustainable management system behind the report.

Furthermore, a validated report is an excellent basis for your public relations and can help to significantly improve the image of your organization. We will issue a certificate which can be included in the sustainability report. Likewise, there is a logo added to the application level with the phrase 'Third Party Checked'.

Your Benefit

If your sustainability report is validated by an independent, external body, it will gain respect by your customers, suppliers, governments and other stakeholder groups and strengthens credibility and confidence in your business.

Costs

The effort for the validation of your sustainability report depends on the audit scope and GRI application level.

We are happy to make you an individual offer. Give us a call or send us an email.
